Woodburn's Good Neighbor Program

by Jim Taylor

For The Woodburn Police Department will have a Good Neighbor informational campaign during the month of June in which Code Enforcement Officers Nick Weathermon and Jeff Solders will be educating residents of Woodburn about potential code violations including tall grass, illegal signs, junk cars, and graffiti. These Officers highlighted some of these code violations at Coffee Hour on May 11th. The one which caught our attention is that grass must be shorter than 10 inches between May 1 and September 30 of each year. This is detailed in Ordinance no. 2338, Section 5. Noxious Vegetation. Another possible code violation which could come up in our area is that the Woodburn Development Ordinance 3.10.8 does not permit signs of any kind to be posted in the City's right-of-way (B. A sign in public rights-of-way) or on utility poles and boxes (O. Signs attached to utility poles or boxes, except those attached by the utility).

One of the Code Enforcement Officers will be back here in the Blue Room on Saturday, June 10th at 1:00 p.m. to further explain city ordinances and answer questions. They hope that, by educating residents through the Good Neighbor Program, residents will take care of issues on their own, so Officers will not have to enforce code violations.

Blood Drive

by Shirley Bishop

City Code Enforcement

Reprinted from City e-blast of May 5, 2017

The City of Woodburn will be initiating its annual "Good Neighbor Program" this spring with its police and Code Enforcement officers. This year officers will be conducting specific education on ordinances pertaining to parking, nuisance abatement, graffiti and the requirements for habitable rental housing. These ordinances comprise a high proportion of the complaints the Woodburn Police Department receives, or impact a significant number of Woodburn citizens.

The City will focus its efforts on the three police districts, which encompasses all of Woodburn, with an emphasis on what it means to be a good neighbor. Some of the ordinances most commonly addressed by the Code Enforcement Officers include:

- Tall Grass: From May 1 to Sept. 30 each year, grass must be no taller than 10 inches. In addition, berries, vines and bushes cannot be in the public right of way.
- Signs: Signs cannot be posted on any light pole or street sign, including garage sale signs. Signs also cannot be in the public right of way.
- Garbage: Open storage of junk, trash or rubbish is illegal. Junk is defined as broken, discarded objects such as appliances, building supplies, furniture, vehicles and parts of vehicles.
- Junked Vehicles: Junked vehicles are those that are not running and are parked on public property. They cannot be parked longer than 48 hours. These are vehicles with flat tires, missing wheels, missing essential parts, extensive body damage or disassembled interior.
- Graffiti: Graffiti must be removed within 10 business days.
- Parking: Be courteous with how and where you park your cars. Parking is not allowed in yards and must be in a driveway, or where allowed on streets.

The City will have three "Code Enforcement Days" in June with both Code Enforcement Officers traveling to each police district. District 1 will be June 3, District 2 will be June 10 and District 3 will be June 17.

Ink Cartridges

by Kathy Hiller

For the past several years, we have been collecting used ink cartridges and Jim Audritch has taken them to the Oregon Paralyzed Veterans of America. They turned them in for cash which they used for their programs. The prices bottomed out and it was no longer advantageous for them to recycle the used cartridges.

We have continued to collect them and recently I found a place to take them to – Rapid Refill at 234 Liberty St NE in Salem. It is an EarthWISE business in Marion County according to the Statesman Journal which had a good article about them, part of which stated: "Rapid Refill doesn't let any item go to waste. Recycling bins throughout the store collect plastics, cans and bottles, ink and toner cartridges and paper products." Therefore, we will be taking all ink and toner cartridges to them on a regular basis, to help with conservation.

For those of you who use ink, occasionally we get unused cartridges turned in. We have two of these right now. These are available on a first come basis.

1. Pigma 245 Black XL;
2. Epson 126 High-capacity (cyan/magenta/yellow).

Contact me at 971-338-6131.

St. Monica's Circle

by Ryllis Linday

Members met on May 2, 2017 at 10 a.m. President Becky Butts led the Pledge of Allegiance. Secretary Katy Taylor read the previous minutes. Barbara Campbell gave her treasurer's report. Both were approved as read.

Gertrude Rees reported on linens: For May would be Barbara Cox and Barbara Campbell. For June would be Barbara Cox and Becky Butts. For July would be Rita Girard and Barbara Cox. For August would be Katy Taylor and Barbara Cox.

Chair for the Sunshine is Betty Judevine. She announced birthdays for May was Peggy Matter and Marilyn Conway. Marilyn was absent, so we sang "Happy Birthday" to Peggy. Those who have birthdays in June are: Ryllis Linday on the 3rd. Pauline Dionne on the 7th, Katy Taylor on the 17th. No Birthdays in July. Mary McNulty's birthday is August 12th. Pat Sepich's is August 16th. Barbara Campbell's is August 28th.

It was announced that St. Monica's Circle is 53 years old. It is one of the oldest clubs in existence today. It was started in 1964. Members are proud of that. Ryllis installed the officers for the year. Becky Butts President. Katy Taylor Secretary. Barbara Campbell Treasurer.

Rita Girard made our lunch which consisted of good old-fashioned baked potato soup, rolls, tossed salad, chocolate cake and angel food cake with strawberries and whipped cream. The Dining Room looked very spring-like with purple flowers on every table. Matching napkins and white place mats covered the tables as they were decorated for Easter. Barbara Cox came in later and brought each lady an Easter chocolate.

Please join us anytime. The second grade students from St. Lukes will be entertaining us in June. There will be no meetings in July and August. See you in September.

Men's Horse Race: A Day of Chip Offs and Excitement

Mike, Paul, Fred, Stu, Jim, Mark, Tony, and Kim
May 20, 2017 Playoff through Clouds and Sun Breaks

by Paula Kilgore

The Men's Horse Race began on a chilly Saturday Morning, May 20. We had 32 contestants and lots of spectators. All low handicaps from each team teeing off on odd-numbered holes, and then it was alternate shots with their partner through the green.

Once everyone had finished that hole, a chip off was in order for those with the same highest score with 2 being eliminated.

On the even numbered holes the higher handicaps teeing off and once again alternate shots through the green with the two highest scores eliminated. Another chip off was in order through number 6 with 2 eliminated at each hole.

Mike Cranford chipped in on holes numbers 3 and 4. Paul Eaton chipped in for a birdie on number 5 as did Mark Forrest on number 6. Lots of excitement all throughout the race. The teams teeing off on 7, with Mike Cranford and Kim Kilgore being eliminated for fourth place.

Fred Bourne and Paul Eaton were eliminated on number 8. The two remaining teams were Mark Forrest and Tony Pye; and Stuart Davis and Jim Hutchinson. After tying the 9th hole, the gentlemen went back to the tee and once again played the 9th with the team of Forrest and Pye taking First Place.

If you have never taken in a Golf Horse Race come the watch at the next one! The Women will be up next on Friday, June 16th starting at 10a.m. followed by the Mixed Horse Race on Friday, July 21st. Bring a snack because you might miss lunch.

I do want to thank each and every volunteer who helped with spotting and scorekeeping and Chuck Siver, Jim Worley, and Stan Hiller for making this Fun!

Men's Golf General Meeting Minutes

Woodburn Estates Men's Golf Membership Meeting

May 3, 2017

The meeting was called to order by President Paul Eaton at 10:00 a.m. in the Dining Hall, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

Roll Call A quorum of officers and committee chairmen was affirmed – Paul Eaton, Will Abshere, Allan Lindberg, Len Westphal, Stan Hiller, Ron Gripenstraw, Clint Hansen, and Ron Hansen. Chuck Johnson was absent with notice.

President Paul Eaton asked if there were any new members here for the first time. Mike Erb and Ken Bloedel both introduced themselves as new members. President Eaton then announced that Gearhart Golf Course is celebrating 125 years. If you are not receiving emails from the OGA about specials and your handicap adjustment, let the pro shop know.

Vice President Will Abshere said we all need to be aware of parking our golf cars to allow others to pass, even for those who are traveling back and forth to the clubhouse. The Men's 9-hole had 13 players and expecting more players when the snowbirds return.

Treasurer Allan Lindberg reported our opening balance of $3,454.24; deposits of $675.00; expenses of $24.00 for doughnuts; and our current balance of $4,102.24.

Mixed Tournament Len Westphal said we have 4 sponsors who have already paid. The entry fee is the same as last year at $16., but there will be no snacks at the breezeway as the banquet is being held at 2:30 p.m. We lost one sponsor and have another to fill that spot, but hate to use one sponsor twice as it would be a big loss if they back out of both tournaments in the future.

Handicap You need to have a witness to be able to post the score. If you post the score wrong, be sure to let the pro shop know, so that the score can be corrected.

Rules Ron Hansen said your clothes are part of your equipment and therefore a moving ball would cause a penalty if it touched your clothes.

Membership Stan Hiller reported that the pro shop has about dozen more bag tags that are needed to be made and he would be auditing the report with the main office report.

Sunshine Ron Gripenstraw said he sent one card and asked if there were any more that should be sent.

NEW BUSINESS:

MOTION - A motion was made to maintain the current position of the sand rakes in the bunker using the PVC pipe and was seconded. All members agreed that it was much better than the old way of retrieving the rake from where they were last placed. This ended the confusion of where the rake was to be placed as some left the rake inside or outside or half in and half out of the bunker. The vote was unanimous to leave as current in the PVC holders.

MOTION - A motion was made to transfer the voucher fund men's portion from two personal security ID's to the Men's Golf Club under their federal ID for audit purposes. Seconded and passed unanimously.

Members Comments:

- Would like the tee placement to be different from the flag placement, instead of having the tee marker moved up the flag pin is in the back and vice-versa.
- What's going on with the handicap computer? When you want to use it to post a score a login is required or some application is on the screen, or you need a password on the windows screen.
- Oregon Trail is that for Club Members only? President Eaton said he will get an answer.
- What is the possibility in eventually getting a cover over the practice area pads?
- We now have a "Play a Round on Us" business card that allows you to have a golfer play for free with the hope they will become a golfing member. This is not to be used in allowing your friends to play golf for free. Don't forget that first time golfers are prorated in their first year here.
- Don't forget to get signed up for any of the upcoming tournaments.

Fred Bourne made a motion to adjourn the Men's Meeting. It was seconded and passed at 10:23 a.m.

Stan Hiller, filling in for Chuck Johnson. Approved by President Paul Eaton.

21 Things Your Burglar Won't Tell You

Submitted by Mary Schueler

1. Of course I look familiar. I was here just last week cleaning your carpets, painting your shutters, or delivering your new refrigerator.
2. Hey, thanks for letting me use the bathroom when I was working in your yard last week. While I was in there, I unlatched the back window to make my return a little easier.
3. Love those flowers. That tells me you have taste... and taste means there are nice things inside. Those yard toys your kids leave out always make me wonder what type of gaming system they have.
4. Yes, I really do look for newspapers piled up on the driveway. And I might leave a pizza flyer in your front door to see how long it takes you to remove it.
5. If it snows while you're out of town, get a neighbor to create car and foot tracks into the house. Virgin drifts in the driveway are a dead giveaway.
6. If decorative glass is part of your front entrance, don't let your alarm company install the control pad where I can see if it's set. That makes it too easy.
7. Sometimes, I carry a clipboard. Sometimes, I dress like a lawn guy and carry a rake. I do my best to never, ever look like a crook.
8. The two things I hate most: loud dogs and nosy neighbors.
9. I'll break a window to get in, even if it makes a little noise. If your neighbor hears one loud sound, he'll stop what he's doing and wait to hear it again. If he doesn't hear it again, he'll just go back to what he was doing. It's human nature.
10. I'm not complaining, but why would you pay all that money for a fancy alarm system and leave your house without setting it?
11. I love looking in your windows. I'm looking for signs that you're home, and for flat screen TVs or gaming systems I'd like. I'll drive or walk through your neighborhood at night, before you close the blinds, just to pick my targets.
12. Avoid announcing your vacation on your Facebook page. It's easier than you think to look up your address.
13. To you, leaving that window open just a crack during the day is a way to let in a little fresh air. To me, it's an invitation.
14. If you don't answer when I knock, I try the door. Occasionally, I hit the jackpot and walk right in.
15. A good security company alarms the window over the sink. And the windows on the second floor, which often access the master bedroom - and your jewelry. It's not a bad idea to put motion detectors up there too.
16. It's raining, you're fumbling with your umbrella, and you forget to lock your door - understandable. But understand this: I don't take a day off because of bad weather.
17. I always knock first. If you answer, I'll ask for directions somewhere or offer to clean your gutters. (Don't take me up on it.)
18. Do you really think I won't look in your sock drawer? I always check dresser drawers, the bedside table, and the medicine cabinet.
19. Here's a helpful hint: I almost never go into kids' rooms.
20. You're right: I won't have enough time to break into that safe where you keep your valuables. But if it's not bolted down, I'll take it with me.
21. A loud TV or radio can be a better deterrent than the best alarm system. If you're reluctant to leave your TV on while you're out of town, you can buy a $35 device that works on a timer and simulates the flickering glow of a real television.

Cockroach Experiences

by Donna Wood

My introduction to cockroaches was when I moved into the women's dormitory at Ottawa University in Ottawa, Kansas. It was my second year of college and my first year away from home. Each floor of the dorm had two kitchens. When you entered the kitchen at night and turned on the light, the sink would be full of small German cockroaches that would all disappear so fast you wondered if you really saw them. You learned to keep any food in a tight container or in the refrigerator. At least I never saw any cockroaches in the refrigerator.

The summer I graduated, I took a three-week field biology class at Kansas State University in Manhattan, Kansas. We had a different topic every day of the week, and on Friday it was insects. Our teacher, Dr. Fred A. Lawson, was showing us around the Entomology Department the first day. Dr. Lawson held the U.S. Public Health Department cockroach research grant for 25 years. When we came to the cockroach rearing room, there were several large colonies in open metal bins. Dr. Lawson ran his fingers through the critters and with pride said "These are my cockroaches." As he brushed a few off of his arms and hands, we noticed a couple in the corner of the room. Looks like a few got away. Years later, Dr. Lawson was part of my team when I worked on my Masters degree in entomology at the University of Wyoming. He took us on field trips to catch several kinds of cockroaches outside in the field. Whoever thought they would be part of the Wyoming ecology?

I never had a problem with cockroaches in either Hawaii or Florida as some people complain about. But, Costa Rica is a different story. My first trip there was with a research team from the Los Angeles County Natural History Museum and we lived in a logging camp on a 640 acre property known as Hacienda La Suerte near the Nicaraguan border. Larger red shouldered cockroaches abounded. My second trip there, I knew I was renting a house by myself, so I stopped in San Jose and bought two of the biggest cans of Bygone insect spray I could get. When I moved in, I sprayed and an hour later swept up about 100 dead cockroaches, then sprayed again. An hour later I swept up another 100 dead ones and sprayed again. This kept up until I was out of insect spray and decided they were hatching out under the house faster than I could kill them, so I just lived with them. I didn't like them dropping off of the ceiling at night though.

My third trip to Costa Rica, I rented a room in Isabel's rooming house as I had a job for the summer at an International Experiment Station in Turrialba. As soon as I turned the light off at night, I could hear the rustle of the critters in my Kleenex box or other things in the room. There was no glass in the windows so they and the rooster could come and go. The rooster was my alarm clock every morning as he sat on my window ledge and crowed. Each time I took an article of clothing off of the hook on the wall, I gave it a big shake to make sure I wasn't giving anything a free ride. One day I started to take a shower, but found a lit candle in the bottom of the shower stall. I presumed it was another method of fighting off the roaches, but later learned (not having had a Catholic upbringing) that Isabel was burning a candle to commemorate the anniversary of the death of her mother and put it in the shower so she wouldn't burn the house down!

On one of my subsequent trips to Costa Rica, I was living in the capital San Jose, and rented a car to drive to Turrialba to visit Isabel. There was a hotel near the train station. Thinking it would be cooler, I rented a room in the basement. I awoke in the night to strange noises. Turning on the light I saw the largest cockroaches ever. They were about 5 inches long with silvery colored wings and so numerous, I thought at first it was a wallpaper pattern, but they were moving and coming up over the edge of the bed. I sat up the rest of the night with the light on, brushing them off of the bed and for the next night rented a room upstairs where the cockroaches were a smaller species.

The forty years I taught biology, I kept a menagerie of animals in my classroom: hamsters, aquarium fish, mice, a cockatiel that rode on my shoulder, etc. The Educational Service District even supplied us with a few reptiles and other exotics like skunks and weasels. We tried baby chicks, which were a mess when they learned to fly out of their box. One year I ordered whistling cockroaches from Carolina Biological Company. They were about the size of the large silvery roaches at the train hotel, but did not fly or move around much and made a strange whooshing noise. As interesting as they were, we didn't keep them long as the custodian was afraid we could pollute our old building.

I look forward to my next cockroach experience!

Keeping Track of the Weather

by Maxine Guerry

On Cable TV there's a 24-hour weather channel. When I was growing up, we could watch 24 hours of weather outside our windows or we could stand on the front porch and look up at the sky. Granted, I didn't know that Anchorage, Alaska had 20 feet of snow on a particular day; and nobody I knew had ever heard of an El Niño; and nobody ever worried about or kept track of the storm that was rumbling through Texas and heading our way. When the storm arrived, it was dealt with in much the same way it would've been dealt with had my parents been glued to the T.V., watching the satellite imagery track it to our door step.

We could glean all we needed to know about the weather using our senses. We could 'feel' the approach of fall in the air. The light was different, more muted; and the rustle of dying leaves and the crunching sound they made under my footsteps accompanied my walk to school. There was no mistaking the arrival of winter -- nothing subtle about a blast of cold air numbing your face and fingers. Wrapping your hands around a cup of hot chocolate chased away the chill. You knew spring was in the air by the sound of birds chirping, and color -- a profusion of color everywhere -- and breezes like warm breaths, and the smell of honeysuckle drifting through an open window. Summer? Summer slid in like a drawn-out sigh ushering in long, lazy days, overhead fans whirring, blinding sunlight, lightning bugs making their magic in the night sky, the sound of children playing One, Two, Three, Red Light! at 10 o'clock at night, and the cacophony of cicadas competing with the snores of someone's daddy. And, boy, you could tell when a storm was heading your way -- the smell of rain was strong, dark clouds rolled across the sky, and the wind whipped around you in a frenzy. I liked those days before the 24-hour weather channel. Now, I can call someone on the phone and ask, "Have you been outside? I believe there's a storm approaching," and the person on the other end of the line will reply, "No, I haven't been outside, but give me a minute to turn on the weather channel." It's not the same, is it?

Buzz Me, Miss Blue

by Jerry Golden

"Buzz me, Miss Blue." So begins an ongoing joke in the old Amos and Andy radio program. The premise was that Kingfish, a lawyer on the show, installed an intercom system backwards. That meant he had to yell at his secretary to call him so they could use the electronic miracle.

Life sometimes seems like that. No matter how carefully you plan, everything runs in reverse, or seems to do so. Is that a matter of perception or an over-flowing of pessimism? Is it possible that you did not account for some contingency or were you blind to the end game of your planning? In my opinion, the old saying holds true; the person who expects the worst and the person who expects the best are both right.

Whatever your anticipated result is, you will always color your decisions to reflect your bias. In stronger words, if you plan to win you will commit to doing anything necessary to make it happen but if you admit the possibility of defeat, you will start making contingency plans, thereby diluting your positive energies.

Many have written about this issue: Dale Carnegie, Reverend Robert Schuler, Norman Vincent Peale and others have pushed the idea of the power of positive thinking. However, positive thinking requires an effort most of us cannot, or will not, put forth. The good news is that any new skill becomes a habit after about fifteen repetitions. So if we force ourselves to visualize positive outcomes, soon we will be doing so without consciously working at it.

Another aspect is that success requires background information. JP Morgan said, "You can't railroad until it is time to railroad." This is a difficult concept to integrate. It means you cannot go to step two until step one is mastered. It means you cannot put on a roof until you have walls to support it. It means you cannot erect walls until there is an adequate foundation. In terms of success, it means you must master each skill necessary to allow you to move to learning the next skill. All of this requires patience and dedication. It is time consuming, frustrating, and difficult.

The bad news is that it is so much easier to expect failure and avoid disappointment when our plans do not work out. Success takes extensive and well thought-out planning. Additionally, success requires practice and thereby implies that imperfect results are achieved during the practice. A person must stay focused on the desired result and not get discouraged during the times the result was less than desired.

A New Hat for Shane

by Rhonda Hadlock

The toddler harness boots were scuffed on both toes and creased at the heels. I vowed to bronze them someday, as I packed them into the steamer trunk along with a well-worn stuffed Piglet and a handmade baby quilt. How I wished I had kept the beige, felt cowboy hat that had slouched over Shane's forehead. As I leaned against the wall, my mind flooded with memories of my son's growing-up years.

I'll never forget rocking him for the first time. A blue knit cap encircled his little red face. His eyelids fluttered shut, and his tiny lips parted as his body relaxed in sleep. I loved him instantly, and gratitude to God filled my heart for this powder-sweet son I held in my arms.

Shane's fondness for hats grew as he did. I recall him as a toddler, wearing a hat while reading Dr. Seuss books in his child-sized rocker. Shane alternated between a chocolate-brown hobo hat, a red cowboy hat, and an oversized Western hat that had long since lost its shape. Later, a multicolored beanie was added to Shane's collection.

In elementary school, Shane created his own head covering for a Christmas performance. He fashioned his shepherd's headgear by tying an arm cover from the plaid couch around his forehead with twine. When he later agreed to play the part of Jesus in the Easter play and saw the 3-inch spiked crown he would wear, he decided to wear his stocking cap underneath.

In the years that followed, he sported batting helmets, tennis visors, baseball caps, "I Love Fishing" hats, camouflage hunting caps and hard hats.

No More Lullabies

As Shane's taste in hats developed, so did his desire to make his own way in life. Once, at a fifth-grade track meet, we watched the typical partly-sunny Oregon sky succumb to rain. Determined not to let the inclement weather dampen my son's enthusiasm, I edged close to the track. When the gun sounded for Shane's heat, I shouted with gusto, "Go, Bobbalou!"

As he crossed the finish line, I whooped and hollered and patted him on the back. Although he had run well, Shane had a sullen look on his face. "Mom," he sternly admonished, "don't ever call me Bobbalou in public again."

Several months later, Shane called me into his room for a talk. As I sat down on his bed, he counseled me; "Mom, I don't want to hurt your feelings, but please don't sing "All Aboard for Blanket Bay" to me at bedtime anymore. After all, I am in middle school." Shane was growing up. I got the message loud and clear.

Launching the Ark

When the day arrived that I left him waving on the curb at a college 2,000 miles from home, I felt as if a part of me had been amputated. I realized that my son would acquire strength only if I allowed him to exercise his power to make choices. But knowing that did nothing to alleviate my fear that his decisions would cause him pain.

The days of holding him on my lap and whispering words of comfort were gone. Instead, I had to release this one I loved so much to the One who loved him more.

Until Death Do Us Part

Shane eventually chose a wife. She was from the mountains of Montana, where real-life cowboys still make their livings. It was no surprise to me that on his wedding day Shane wore a black tux — and a new black Stetson. As Shane watched his bride walking down the aisle, I wanted to reach out and squeeze his arm; but I resisted. I sensed this was a pivotal moment — a rite of passage for me as well as for him.

As Shane stepped forward confidently and extended his arm to his bride, my heart constricted with emotions; pride and love for this precious son — who was stepping into regions unknown with a new partner— mingled with momentary sadness for our relationship, which was from that moment altered forever.

As I watched Shane and his bride exchange their wedding vows, I consciously relinquished my role as his primary nurturer. I sensed that only as I completely released my son to move forward with his life would I be free to fully enjoy watching him grow into manhood. Shane, indeed, wore a new hat that day. And so, I realized, did I.

I sighed as I locked the trunk and returned it to storage. Someday I really will bronze those boots. And even though the old felt cowboy hat never found a place in the keepsake chest, it will always be a priceless symbol to me of a lifetime of growth — for my son and myself.

If you can...

If you can start the day without caffeine; if you can always be cheerful, ignoring aches and pains; if you can resist complaining and boring people with your troubles; if you can eat the same food every day and be grateful for it; if you can understand when your loved ones are too busy to give you any time; if you can take criticism and blame without resentment; if you can conquer tension without medical help; if you can relax without a glass of wine; and if you can sleep without the aid of drugs; then you are probably the family dog! —Author unknown

Roar Like a Lion

by Anna Phillips

In my opinion, the big difference between Zumba and Zumba Gold is attitude. At a Zumba class, you'll run into a lot of spandex and competition. I don't mean that in a bad way, it's just a younger bunch of enthusiasts. I remember when I was into Aerobics. I had numerous outfits, and looking good was very important. I worked very hard, because I wanted to be perceived as a real winner. Heaven forbid, if I didn't fit in!

Now, some 40 years later, my priorities have changed. You've heard the axiom, "I'm built for comfort, not for speed"? Well, that about sums it up for me.

About 4 years ago I decided to try Zumba Gold here at The Estates, and guess what? I fit right in! No spandex needed! People were warm and friendly. The instructor was encouraging and best of all, we came in all sizes and shapes.

I stumbled through many classes, and no one made fun of me. In fact, stumbling usually results in a good laugh. We have a lot of fun in our class, and some songs really move us. We have become Katy Perry fans of a sort. When we work out to her song "Roar", we do just that! Our instructors, Rhonda and Denise, are very tolerant of our antics and likely to be just as silly.

If you are looking for a good time and an honest workout, come join us on Mondays at 11:00 a.m., and/or Wednesdays at 10:00 a.m., in the Auditorium. You too, can roar like a lion!

WE REPAIR & SERVICE RECREATIONAL VEHICLES OF ALL SIZES.

We don't just do mechanical work but also complete body repair and interior renovations. From a brake job to refinishing a counter top, we can do it all.
